

College Savings

June 13 – July 21

At Military Saves, our goal is to promote the importance of savings and encourage servicemembers and their families to take financial action. To help the people you serve save more successfully and to promote the importance of savings at a national level, we have put together this resource packet with you in mind.

This resource packet includes:

1. Sample Article
2. Facebook and Twitter Posts
3. Tools and Resources
4. One-question survey

Use these resources to help you communicate with the public, your audience, and with other organizations to help them promote the importance of emergency savings. Look for new packets from Military Saves about every six weeks.

We encourage you to use this material to:

- Augment the savings information you already provide to others;
- Encourage individuals to Pledge as Savers in the Military Saves campaign, thereby creating and committing to a basic savings or debt reduction plan;
- Position your organization as "in front" of the savings message and the need to save, particularly in uncertain economic times;

We want to hear from you. Please take a moment to comment on the usefulness of this material with this One-question survey. Questions or Comments? Contact info@militarysaves.org.

Our next resource kit will be about Debt and Consumer Protection: July 22 – September 8, 2013.

Saving For College: Graduating With the Least Amount of Debt

By Katie Bryan, America Saves Communications Manager

By June, most recent high school graduates know what college they are going to, but many of them may still not know how they are going to pay for it. We've heard the stats that the average debt students have upon graduation has skyrocketed to $35,200, according to a recent Fidelity survey, and that the costs of attending college increase 6% each year. College is still a great investment for most students, especially with some planning ahead of time to help keep debt to a minimum. It's still true that those with a bachelor's degree will earn $1 Million more over their lifetime than those who only complete high school.

The challenge is to graduate with as little debt as possible. Here are three ways to help keep student debt to a minimum:

1. Create a College Savings Plan

Just like savings for retirement, it's good to save early and often. There are many ways out there to help you save, from a 529 account to Savings Bonds. Tip to find extra money to save: If you can save $300 a year ($25 a month at 5% interest, compounded monthly for 18 years) you will have an extra $8,766.43 to put towards tuition bills.

Haven't created a college savings plan yet? Pledge to Save with Military Saves, set your savings goal, and create a plan to reach that goal.

2. Shop Around For Schools and Free Money

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau created a tool to compare the costs of different colleges. Their tool will let you compare financial aid offers so you can see how all those numbers impact your payments down the road.

Apply for as many scholarships as you can. $500 here and $1,000 there can go a long way to helping pay for college. Many students also stop looking for scholarships once they enter college, but keep applying each year. Need some inspiration? Check out the article "How I won \$100,000+ in college scholarships" by Ramit Sethi.

3. Find Ways to Reduce Spending (or Earn Money) While in College

Live at Home – Living on campus can cost anywhere from $7,500 to $9,000 per year. Consider living at home during college (if you can) and you can save nearly $40,000. You can still get a full college experience by joining clubs and being active on campus.

Get a Part-Time Job – Look for a job on campus or a paid internship to supplement your income and pay for expenses like food, books, and incidentals while in college. The more you can pay upfront the less your monthly loan payments will be when you graduate. Need more ways to save? We've got a list of 54 ways to save here.

Military Saves, a component of America Saves and a partner in the Department of Defense's Financial Readiness Campaign, is a research-based social marketing campaign to motivate, support, and encourage military families to save money and build wealth.
